Speakers' Bureau

A group of SCE employees committed to educating customers about important issues related to the electricity industry.

About the Speakers' Bureau

The Southern California Edison Speakers' Bureau is made up of employees who volunteer their time to educate and inform customers about a variety of topics related to electricity.

Our services are free and we offer multilingual speakers who can make presentations to service clubs, schools, business and faith-based organizations, as well as senior and consumer groups. We also support community events and present to groups of all sizes.
